Catholic Women Speak is a groundbreaking, thought-provoking anthology of essays on women and family life that asks questions and explores issues that do not find space for open discussion in the Church. The writers are women who represent a broad international perspective and come from a variety of personal backgrounds who believe that the Church cannot come to a wise and informed understanding of family life without listening to women.

“Pope Francis has repeatedly said that he wants a “messy” Church, a Church that is not afraid to take risks in order to live the joyous adventure of faith. This book expresses the messy realities of women’s lives, realities that challenge the Church’s current practice in many ways, realities that the Church must acknowledge in order to communicate the Gospel to future generations.” - from the foreword
