

Susanna Wesley Foundation

Annual Conference, Wed 26th April, 2023

Transforming Lives to Shape a Just Society

Contributor biographies (alphabetical order)

Dr. Elizabeth M. Bounds, Associate Professor of Ethics, Emory University

Having joined Candler School of Theology in 1997, Liz is engaged in the Justice, Peacebuilding, and Conflict Transformation Concentration, part of the Master of Divinity degree program at Candler. She also teaches courses as part of the Religion, Conflict, and Peacebuilding Concentration in Emory's Graduate Division of Religion.

The core of Dr Bound's work is focused on moral and theological responses to conflict and violence, whether in the U.S. prison system, ordinary congregational life, or post-conflict situations.

She engages questions of restorative justice and the U.S. criminal justice system, peacebuilding and conflict transformation, democratic practices and civil society, working with a variety of participatory and practical methods.

She is the author of Coming Together/Coming Apart: Religion, Modernity, and Community (1997), co-editor of Welfare Policy: Feminist Critiques and Justice in the Making: Feminist Social Ethics (1999) and has authored several essays in edited volumes.

Dr Bound's current research studies are on theo-moral understandings of the good life among incarcerated women. She is co-founder/administrator of the Certificate in Theological Studies at Arrendale State Prison for Women.

Dr Michał P. Garapich, Senior Lecturer, School of Humanities and Social Sciences, University of Roehampton

Michał is a social anthropologist and author of an award-winning monograph using intimate ethnography, and over 50 publications in English, Polish, French and German. He specialises in the issues of migration, transnationalism, heritage, memory, far-right radicalisation, resistance, homelessness, nationalism, Polish Roma and intimate ethnography, and his fieldwork experience includes Britain, Poland, Ukraine and Peru.

Michał is a non-conventional, innovative and passionate teacher, a leader in experiential education involving learning through immersion. In 2011 he was the recipient of a Southlands Methodist Trust grant to carry out ethnographic research among Eastern European homeless populations in London and has published extensively on the subject. On that basis he has designed a unique 3rd year dissertation module for Sociology, Anthropology and Criminology students where under his supervision students carry out highly applicable research with homeless populations in London – a pedagogical practice that has been shortlisted twice for an award in teaching (Times Higher Education in 2015, and European Teaching Award in 2021).

The Revd Dr Andrew Harper, Chief Responsibility Officer, Epworth Investment Management

Andrew Harper joined Epworth Investment Management in April 2021 and is responsible for all matters related to ethical thought leadership and ethical performance.

From Texas, and ordained in the Methodist Church of Nigeria, Andrew was previously Director of Global & Learning Innovation at Cliff College, a graduate and postgraduate evangelical learning community that forms part of the Methodist Church in Britain.

Andrew holds postgraduate qualifications in theology from the Southern Methodist University in Dallas, USA, and has completed his Doctor of Ministry with Wesley University in Nigeria.

Contributor biographies (alphabetical order)

Prof Pamela Machakanja, Interim Deputy Vice Chancellor and Director, Research & Innovation, Africa University

Pamela Machakanja holds a PhD in Peace and Conflict Studies, a Master of Arts degree in Peace and Conflict Resolution and a Diploma in Leadership and Policy Development, and a Diploma in Research Methods in Social Sciences from the University of Bradford, UK. She also holds a Masters degree in Educational Psychology from the University of Zimbabwe, along with several other professional qualifications.

She is well known for her exceptional work in curriculum development and has vast experience in grant writing for innovative capital projects for corporate renewal and research projects. She serves on several internationally recognized boards including Africa University Board of Directors and the Executive Committee of the International Association of the United Methodist Schools, Colleges and Universities.

Prof Machakanja has published a number of book chapters, monographs and ground-breaking articles in peer-reviewed international journals. She has also won a number of awards including the 2014 Researcher of the Year Award at Africa University.

Dr Fayneese S. Miller, President of Hamline University

Dr Fayneese S. Miller received her BA in psychology from Hampton University, MS and PhD in experimental/social psychology from Texas Christian University, and completed post-doctoral training in applied social psychology from Yale University.

She has published several books and articles on the social, racial, and political development of adolescents and conducted research for the State of Rhode Island on race and gender bias in the courts, and on school-based truancy courts.

Dr Miller has been an invited lecturer throughout the U.S. and in Saudi Arabia, Thailand, China, Australia, and the United Kingdom.

On July 1, 2015, became the 20th President of Hamline University. She is the first African-American and second woman to hold the position. Prior to her appointment as president, Dr Miller was the dean of the College of Education and Social Services and Professor of Leadership and Developmental Sciences at the University of Vermont. From 1985 to 2005, she was a professor of education at Brown University, served as Director of the Center for the Study of Race and Ethnicity in America, and was the founding chairman of Ethnic Studies.

Dr Florita Miranda, President of the Wesleyan College of Manila, Philippines

Dr Florita Miranda is a leader, educator, author and researcher, and an advocate for the urban poor, women and youth.

She holds an MA in Education and a PhD in Management (Wah Har College, Hong Kong).

Dr Miranda currently serves as President of the Wesleyan College of Manila in the Philippines where she has worked since 2003. She is also President of the Asia-Pacific Association of Methodist-related Educational Institutions (APAMEI).

Dr Tink Tinker, Professor Emeritus, Iliff School of Theology

Dr Tink Tinker (wazhazhe, Osage Nation) is Professor Emeritus at the Iliff School of Theology in Denver, USA. A member of the faculty since 1985, Tink Tinker teaches courses in American Indian cultures, history, and religious traditions; cross-cultural and Third-World theologies; and justice and peace studies and is a frequent speaker on these topics both in the U.S. and internationally.

His publications include "Redskin, Tanned Hide: A Book of Christian History Bound in the Flayed Skin of an American Indian: The Colonial Romance, christian Denial and the Cleansing of a christian School of Theology", Journal of Race and Ethnicity in Religion (5:9, 2014, 1-43); "'Damn it, he's an Injun!' Christian Murder, Colonial Wealth, and Tanned Human Skin", The New Polis, January 21, 2019; "Rev. Rezin Monroe Barns' Gift to Iliff: A Tainted Trophy and the Framing of White Supremacy in America", The New Polis Journal, 1:2 (Fall 2022): 276-300. Continued...

He is also the author of American Indian Liberation: A Theology of Sovereignty (2008); Spirit and Resistance: Political Theology and American Indian Liberation (2004); and Missionary Conquest: The Gospel and Native American Genocide (1993). He is co-editor of Native Voices: American Indian Identity and Resistance (2003), and Peoples' Bible (2008).

Dr Tinker has volunteered in the Indian community as (non-stipendiary) director of Four Winds American Indian Survival Project in Denver for two decades. In that capacity he functions in the urban Indian community as a traditional American Indian spiritual leader.

The Revd Dr Thomas Wolfe, Principal and CEO, Iliff School of Theology

The Rev. Dr. Thomas V. Wolfe serves as the President and Chief Executive Officer of Iliff School of Theology, an appointment that he began on August 1, 2013.

Prior to his role as President and CEO, Wolfe served as Senior Vice President and Dean of the Division of Student Affairs at Syracuse University, a position he was appointed to on June 3, 2008. Previous to his appointment to Student Affairs, Wolfe served as the fifth dean of Hendricks Chapel at Syracuse University. He assumed that appointment in January 1999. Previously he served as the Interdenominational Protestant Chaplain at Syracuse University. He has also served as pastor of United Methodist parishes in Moravia and Ithaca in upstate New York.

Wolfe holds a B.A. degree from Lycoming College in Williamsport, PA, a Master of Divinity degree from Pacific School of Religion in Berkeley, CA, and a Ph.D. in Higher Education Administration from Syracuse University. Wolfe is an ordained elder in full connection with the Upper New York Conference of the United Methodist Church. He was ordained in 1980.

Wolfe previously served as the President of the University Senate of the United Methodist Church, as a trustee at Lycoming College, and served on Governor Hickenlooper's Commission on the Sand Creek Massacre Commemoration.

Wolfe serves as the President of the International Association of Methodist Schools, Colleges, and Universities (IAMSCU). He also serves on the board of The Interfaith Alliance of Colorado. He delivered the Colorado Council of Churches' Easter Sunrise sermon at Red Rocks Amphitheater in 2015.

Wolfe is married to the Rev. Marilyn N. Wolfe, LCSW, who is an ordained elder in full connection in the Upper NY Conference of the United Methodist Church. They have two daughters, Erin Barkan and Kimberly Wolfe, two sons-in-law, a granddaughter and three grandsons.

More to follow...

